New Member Open House

Sunday, September 7, 2014, 2-4 PM

Now is your chance to invite a friend, family member or colleague to an Open House at Sinai Temple! On Sunday, September 7th, the Membership Committee will host an informal social gathering - complete with a delicious reception and a short program - in the Davis Chapel.

Our goal is to showcase the many educational programs, services and activities we offer throughout the year. If you know someone who has recently moved to the area, a colleague who has expressed interest in joining a congregation, or a family or individual who has lapsed their involvement with Sinai Temple, invite them! We will e-mail invitations and make follow-up calls in the next month.

Please forward the name of anyone who should receive an invitation to Elizabeth Hess, Membership Chair, elizabethhess@hotmail.com, or call 217-766-2110.

Our sages tell a story:

A king had a son who had grown lazy, overly accustomed to the privileges of his royal lineage. Concerned for his mental and physical well-being, he wanted the prince to acquire the wisdom of the world. So he sent him off to a university in a distant land, so that he might study with the great minds of the time. The prince threw himself into his work with tremendous enthusiasm. He learned a great deal on a variety of subjects: mathematics, physics, philosophy, and literature. After many years, he returned triumphantly to his home, armed with books and diplomas and eager to impress his father and his friends with the depth of his knowledge.

The king greeted his son warmly and affectionately, but before he would allow the young man to unfold his stories and recount his lessons, he presented the young man with a problem. "My son, I have a favor to ask of you."

"I will do anything you ask, father!" the prince replied, eager to apply his studies in a practical manner.

"There is a large boulder in front of the palace," the king explained. "Please go get it and bring it here."

The prince ran off to do what his father had asked. Hours later, he returned, dejected. "I am sorry, father. I used every tool at my disposal, but I could not move that rock one inch, let alone bring the whole thing to you."

"Ah," said the king. "You presumed that you needed to move the whole boulder at once. Be patient, and move it piece by piece."

The sages added, "So it is for us in the work of teshuvah. God does not expect us to complete our turning all at once. Rather, we are given the opportunity to make small changes, piece by piece, as we strive to become better."

How often are we like the prince in this story, fixated on the notion of all-or-nothing, convincing ourselves that if we cannot move immediately to the completion of a goal, it's not worth undertaking in the first place? If you've received an email from me, you may have noticed in my signature line a quotation from Pirke Avot, the collection of aphorisms from the Mishnah. Rabbi Tarfon teaches, "Lo alecha ha-m'lacha l'g'mor, v'lo atah ben-chorin l'hibateil mimena. – You are not required to complete the task, but neither are you free to abstain from it." This reminder, which is often applied to the work of tikkun olam (engaging in deeds of social justice to bring about significant change in our world), is actually relevant to the work of internal change that we are asked to undergo in preparation for Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur. And Rabbi Tarfon actually continues, stating, "The day is short, the task is daunting, and the workers are tired. But the pay is great and the Master is pressing for the work to be completed." Here the connection to personal reflection and repentance is even more striking: yes, it is daunting and tiring work, but if we are willing to apply ourselves to it, God continues to spur us to take action, and we will reap great rewards.

As the story of the prince points out, teshuvah, the act of self-reflection and repentance, is easily hampered when one assumes an all-or-nothing approach. We may decide that if we cannot be fully repentant, if we cannot completely leave behind an undesirable trait or behavior, then perhaps its worthless to try to change at all. But our tradition teaches that the opposite is true; God wants us to return to "the proper path," and if we merely have the courage to approach God in true contrition, God will accept us in love.

We are now in the Hebrew month of Elul, the month preceding the High Holy Days (it began on August 27). During this month, it is customary to engage in self-examination (cheshbon ha-nefesh, literally "an accounting of the soul") in an effort to discover what sort of changes we might wish to make so that we might strive to be better in the coming year. The shofar traditionally is sounded on weekdays to herald the approaching New Year and to awaken us to the opportunity for personal spiritual growth.

We are taught that the word Elul is actually an acronym for the phrase "Ani L'dodi V'Dodi Li – I am for my beloved as my beloved is for me." This verse, a quotation from the love poetry of Song of Songs, is in this context meant to remind each of us that God is reaching out to us in love. The opportunity for meaningful change is ever-present; we merely need to be open to the possibility.

Jody, Gabe, and Orli join me in wishing you and your family a Shanah Tovah U'm'tukah, a happy, healthy, and sweet New Year. May each of us merit to be inscribed in the Book of Life for abundant blessings and peace in the coming year.

L'Shalom,

Rabbi Alan Cook

From the Board

For many people, late August and early September is when we get back into the routine of life. Days of sleeping in late and going to the pool are ending and are being replaced by school bells and band practices, and so too with the Board of Trustees. We did not meet in July to conduct ordinary business although we did meet in special session to discuss the Educator search. Our August meeting was very productive. We have purchased more tables for the pods, we have installed a speaker in the kitchen so one of our hosts can hear the service, we will be repairing the museum cases, we are almost done updating our website and we have big plans for the Labor of Love such as cleaning the shed, planting new flowers, repairing some carpet, etc. We also discussed big-picture issues such as agreeing on a background check policy for employees, entering into negotiations with the URJ about future dues, meeting with officials about safety issues, and discussing the Sign in front of the temple (we are close!)

There are many events and projects in the coming year but we are blessed to have a lot of volunteers who are willing to help. But volunteers need people to coordinate the efforts. I am looking for two individuals who could chair the Caring Committee (combined hospital, shiva, flower, etc.) and the Development Committee (aka Fundraising). If you are interested, please let me know.

I appreciate your personal commitment to the future of Sinai Temple with your time and involvement in the many things our congregation does. Sinai Temple also needs your financial support. You should have received a packet about making a pledge to Sinai Temple. Please make your pledge as soon as you can. It is important that your pledge be both realistic and followed through with a payment schedule that fits your situation. Pledges are confidential.

I would write more but I set aside only 20 minutes to write this - I have to keep to my schedule. Have a wonderful month.

Randy Rosenbaum, President

Summary of August 11, 2014 Board Meeting

- ☆ Proposed minutes from June 8, 2014 were corrected. MOTION to accept minutes as corrected. All in FAVOR.
- ☆ The Finance Committee approved and recommended spending up to $500 from the Building Fund for Labor of Love. Finance also approved and recommended spending up to $750 from Interiors Fund for the Kitchen and Building Committees request for more tables to gradually begin replacing old and broken ones. Finally, Finance approved hiring Kathy Webber as an Administrative Mentor to Rabbi Jody Cook (new Director of Education). MOTION to "Hire an Administrative Mentor for $400 for 20 hours of mentoring, then $30 an hour, with a total cap of $1000. All in FAVOR.
- ☆ Emergency Plans: Fire, Tornado, Emergency Evacuation, These are in the process of being revamped, and the plan is that there will be a map in each room in the building.
- ☆ Background checks: There is a company that we can run checks through. Discussion about having a policy in place. MOTION: "All new employees will have a background check which will be decided on a case by case basis. If something comes back, then Religious School employees will be decided by Educator in consultation with the Rabbi; other staff will be decided by Administrator in consultation with the Rabbi. All employment is contingent on background checks". All in FAVOR.
- ☆ URJ Dues: We had made an arrangement with the URJ to pay $20,000 for 3 years, which we have done. The most recent bill from URJ was for $37,000. Discussion about agreement with URJ. MOTION: "Start negotiations with URJ to pay $20,000 per year." All in FAVOR.

SAFETY AT SINAI

The Board of Trustees takes safety at Sinai very seriously. While there have been no recent incidents, it was decided that we should update our plans and make sure the current Office staff was appropriately trained. Temple leaders have met with officials from the Champaign Fire and Champaign Police Departments to ensure that we are prepared for emergencies. With regard to a fire at Sinai, the Fire Marshall has identified the quickest routes to exit the building. With regard to a tornado warning, he identified that the safest place at Sinai is the northern school hallway which runs from the Temple office to the Davis Chapel. "Tornado shelter" signs will be placed in that hallway. Both fire and tornado routes will be posted in each classroom and around the temple. Soon after religious school starts, we will conduct both fire and tornado drills. Additionally, the police department will continue to work with Temple leaders to develop procedures for other types of emergency situations. Our goal is to take steps to prevent such events and to effectively respond to them should they occur.

From Our Educator

On the morning of my first “official” day as Director of Education at Sinai Temple, I made myself a smoothie for breakfast. In addition to spinach, Greek yogurt, blueberries, banana, almond milk and ice, I squeezed a bit of honey into the blender. In our house, we mark the beginning of the school year with pictures and signs and a spoonful of honey. It seemed appropriate to mark my transition in the same way. I was not only starting the Sinai Temple Religious School year but I was starting an entirely new, personal educational experience.

I am honored to serve Sinai Temple as Education Director. I have just celebrated 10 years in the rabbinate and come to this job with many classroom teaching experiences under my belt. I am confident in my abilities to work with teachers, I am excited to watch our children connecting to Judaism and I am enthusiastic about the way we influence the lives of students in our school. And still, I had a spoonful of honey on my first day.

According to Judaism, learning is supposed to be sweet. I know that as Education Director I will be doing a lot of learning. I am a leader of the congregation and I have skills and knowledge to do this well. The honey will remind me that, despite my background and experience, I have a lot still to learn and that each thing I do as Education Director is an opportunity for me to grow.

I am eager for the arrival of September 14, the start of Religious School classes, and am currently working hard to accomplish everything that needs to happen to get the school year off to a sweet start. Please be sure to say hi to me on September 7th at registration!

Teacher Feature—Karen Ray

Each month, read about one of our wonderful Religious School teachers. Their commitment to educating our children is noteworthy.

How many years have you been teaching at STRS?

I started the year after Edward was confirmed and he is almost 21 so it must be 5 years with this one starting the sixth. I didn't want to stop coming to Sunday School and I really needed a reason to still be a part of Religious School.

What are some of your hobbies?

I love to quilt and do counted cross stitch. I also garden and love to read historical fiction.

What is your favorite Jewish holiday?

When I was young, it was Passover. For the past 25 years, it has to be Rosh Hashanah—my family comes and we get to celebrate together. It is the only holiday we get to spend together as they live on the east coast.

Share a Jewish memory that is important to you?

My bat mitzvah and my sons' bar mitzvahs.

What do you do for work outside of STRS?

I teach 8th grade math at Edison Middle School in Champaign.

One thing that you have learned from a student/class throughout your years of teaching?

It is difficult to choose one thing—I always learn from my students in very unexpected ways. I also love to watch my Religious School students as they go from 6th graders through Confirmation, to see how their knowledge of Judaism and themselves mature.

STRS is excited to have Karen Ray back this year to teach 6th Grade Religious School.

Announcements

Meditation Classes

Tuesday, September 9th at 7:00 PM

The emphasis will be on not just learning about forms of Jewish meditation but actually spending most of the class practicing meditation. The class will be 8 weeks and offered for free. People who are interested or have questions can contact Linda Weiner at lindakweiner@gmail.com or call 378-4626.

Book Group

Monday, September 15th at 7:30 PM,

Americanah, by Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie, at the home of Sandy Hynds, 609 S. James, C. (352-8218). Facilitator: Sandy., Contact Person: Susan Schomer (359-2938)

Selichot

Saturday, September 20th at 8:00 PM

Selichot offers us the opportunity to engage in reflection before the start of the High Holy Days. This year our Selichot program and service will take place on Saturday evening, September 20, beginning at 8 pm. Rabbi Alan will lead an interactive discussion called "The Long and Winding Road," exploring how lyrics from popular songs of the past fifty years can help us examine our relationship with God and with one another. We'll then proceed to a beautiful and reflective service that will help to set the tone for Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur.

Mah Jongg

Wednesday, September 17th at 7:00 PM

Mah Jongg is a game that has been played for generations. Sinai Temple will host mah jongg for experienced players and beginners (with a lesson provided). Please bring your own card, extra cards to share if you have, a snack and a smile! Please RSVP to Jody at rabbijody@yahoo.com

Sukkot Concert Weekend

Friday, October 10th & Saturday October 11th

Sinai Temple is pleased to welcome Jewish musician and recording artist Alan Goodis! Alan is a Chicago-based musician whose work is well known in Jewish camp and youth group settings across the country.

Alan will join us for the weekend beginning with Friday night services for Shabbat Sukkot, at 7:30 PM on October 10th.

On Saturday morning, October 11th, the community is invited to brunch and a musical worship service at the Cook family's sukkah in Champaign, featuring Rabbi Alan and Alan Goodis.

Saturday night, we'll gather at Temple at 7:00 PM for Havdalah and a fabulous concert to round out the weekend. We are seeking sponsors to help make this fabulous weekend possible. Please contact Rabbi Alan if you are interested in sponsorship opportunities.

Israel Trip

June 7th - 18th, 2015

Sinai Temple is going to Israel! Our trip is scheduled for June 7-18, 2015 and has an itinerary appropriate for all ages and all types of travelers. Whether you are a first-timer or an Israel veteran, you're invited to join the Cook family on this fun and educational exploration of Israel. A no-obligation informational meeting will be held on Thursday, September 18 at 7 pm at Temple. Please contact Rabbi Alan for more information.

Food Drive

Saturday, October 4th, 8:30 AM - 2:30 PM

Sinai Temple is once again collecting donations of food and funds during the High Holy Days to benefit the Eastern Illinois Food Bank. Last year, we collected over 500 lbs. of food and more than $5,000 in donations to help the Food Bank provide for the less fortunate in our community. We hope to meet or exceed that amount this year. Bags and donation envelopes will be available at services on Rosh Hashanah; please return any donations on Yom Kippur. Thank you for your generous support of this Tikkun Olam effort.
