Campers should bring a bag lunch.

Summertime, and the living is easy. Fish are jumping, and the cotton is high...

That's the image George Gershwin and DuBose Heyward drew upon when they crafted the song "Summertime," for the operetta "Porgy and Bess" nearly 80 years ago. Here in Champaign, we may not have many jumping fish, and the high cotton is replaced by even higher corn (and slightly lower soybeans). Nevertheless, the arrival of summer, with its more relaxed pace and its warmer temperatures, does create a shift in our mood.

In some ways, summer brings on an air of relaxation. School has ended, and many of us can look forward to vacations, summer camp, or other activities. Our clothing may become more casual, and we may languidly while away the hours enjoying the great outdoors. In our family, Rabbi Jody and I are looking forward to spending two weeks on the faculty of Olin Sang Ruby Union Institute (OSRUI), the Reform movement's summer camp in Wisconsin. Gabe will be a camper there, and Orli will be able to enjoy many of the camp's activities as well. Many of our Sinai Temple Religious School students will also be attending OSRUI, or a number of the other Jewish camps throughout the region. We are proud of the way that our community will be represented in these programs, and we know that our young people will return home engaged and excited about the friends they've made and the skills they've learned.

I've been fortunate in my life to spend time at one of the URJ summer camps in one capacity or another for about half of the summers in my life. There have been many treasured memories formed there; I find camp challenges us both as children and as adults to open our minds and broaden our horizons. I look forward each summer to the opportunity to "recharge my batteries" while connecting with colleagues and counselors and campers. I go to camp in order to teach, but I frequently come home having learned from—and having been inspired by—those with whom I've shared the time.

And here at home, despite the summer lull, you can rest assured that there's still plenty of activity going on at Sinai Temple. Our board, now under the leadership of Gary Bernstein, will begin meeting again in June to continue its stewardship of our beloved congregation. Rabbi Jody is making preparations for the school year, and our Music Director Martha Alwes and I will be planning for our High Holiday services. And there are sermons to be written and revised, as well. Before we know it, fall and its accompanying holidays will be upon us once again, and we will return to the rhythms of another calendar year.

The "Porgy and Bess" song continues, "One of these mornings, you're gonna rise up singing." May our summer experiences inspire us to pause for a moment, to hear the music all around us that we all too often tune out because it becomes intrusive and cumbersome in our daily lives. May we appreciate the variant tones and the diverse songs that each of us carry with us, and may we learn to join our songs with one another in beautiful harmony.

The Ba'al Shem Tov, the 18th century rabbi credited with the founding of Chasidic Judaism, once said, "The world is full of miracles and wonders, and we take our little hands and cover our eyes and see nothing." May summer grant us time to uncover our eyes and bask in the beauty of our surroundings (whether at home or away). May we embrace all the wonder that the hustle and bustle of daily life too often renders us unable to fully absorb.

So enjoy your summer. May it be warm and sunny and relaxing, and may your living be "easy."

L'Shalom,

Rabbi Alan Cook

Every other year, the Union for Reform Judaism (URJ), with which Sinai Temple is affiliated, holds a Biennial Convention so that Jews from all over North America may come together to pray, learn, sing, and share community with one another. This year's conference will be held in Orlando, FL from November 4—8 and will feature speakers such as Anita Diamant, Nicholas Kristoff, and Ari Shavit. Sinai Temple is working to assemble a delegation to take advantage of slightly discounted registration rates. Please visit <http://urj.org/biennial> to find further information about the convention, and please contact Rabbi Alan if you are interested in joining our delegation.

Birthday & Anniversary Blessings

If you celebrate a birthday or anniversary in June or July, please join us at our services on Friday, June 12th, at 7:30 PM and Friday, July 10th at 7:30 PM. Rabbi Alan will invite all those marking a milestone to join him on the bimah for a special blessing. After the service, we will enjoy treats at the Oneg in your honor! No RSVP is necessary to participate!

Topics for my bulletin article usually come easily to me. But not this one. I have struggled for weeks with what I should write about. After prolonged reflection, I decided to use this precious, final article as President, to express how much this opportunity has meant to me personally.

I recall Tony Novak calling me four years ago and asking if I would be Vice-President. I laughed at him, thinking it was a joke. I told him that I did not like being in charge, that I did not like public speaking and that I was not a social person. He laughed at me and said that those were exactly the reasons why I should accept the job. He told me that leading the temple would make me a better person. I didn't believe him. But he was right.

I eventually accepted the offer and set some goals as Vice-President and President. I wanted to make a difference at Sinai, but what has amazed me over the years is how Sinai, instead, has changed me. I have learned that I can start conversations with people I don't know. I have learned that speaking from the heart is the most important way to connect with others. I have learned to be able to take both criticism and compliments, neither of which I could do beforehand. I have learned that cooperation, compromise and teamwork are the keys to success.

Indeed, Sinai has made me a more complete and well-rounded person. The skills that I have learned in this job have, and will continue to have, an impact on my professional and personal life.

There are times in our lives when our faith is tested and when our faith is strengthened. Oftentimes the same event does both. Being President is such an example. Dealing with complex and difficult temple issues has been emotionally trying, but has improved my ability to work with others and seek compromise. Going to Board meetings and other events kept me from my family, but has made me appreciate them more when I am with them. I now have a greater understanding how Sinai Temple sustains us spiritually, educationally and culturally – I know this because of personal experience. Sinai Temple and being a part of its leadership has made me a better person.

With genuine affection for Rabbi Alan, the Board and other staff, and a sincere appreciation to the congregation for giving me this opportunity, I now close this chapter of my life and store it as a treasure in my memory and in my heart.

Randy Rosenbaum

SINAI TEMPLE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

May 11, 2015

- ☆ Motion to accept the April 2015 minutes by Art, seconded by Paul. All in Favor.
- ☆ Rabbi Alan reported that he recently attended a preliminary meeting about the possibility of resurrecting the Jewish Community Relations Council (JCRC) through the Champaign-Urbana Jewish Federation.
- ☆ A pledge update report was passed out. There are currently 242 pledges received - 201 are paid in full and 37 paid in part. As of 4-15-2015, there are 285 member units. The Finance Committee provided the Board with a financial timeline which gives guidance for when the Financial Secretary, the Treasurer, and the office staff prepare reports and take other financial steps.
- ☆ Two building issues were discussed. First, there is extensive electrical work that needs done in the pods, sanctuary and outside. The companies may have to determine the extent of some of the work to be done. We received two bids. Discussion followed. Motion by Art to accept the bid by Central Illinois Electric with a cap of $4640, coming from the maintenance and repairs line item and not the Building Fund. Second by Dana - all in Favor. Second, there was discussion about the proposal from Alpha Controls to perform regular maintenance on our heating, ventilation and air condition units. Members believed that this may reduce the cost of unexpected repair work. Motion by Wynne to accept the contract for a 3 year term. Second by Art. All in favor.
- ☆ There was one application for membership from Nurit Davis (mother of Maya Israel). Motion by Carmen to accept the application. Second by Art. All in Favor.
- ☆ There was a consensus that temple office hours would switch to 9:00 AM—3:00 PM for June and July. Rabbi Alan indicated that this should not be a problem, especially since he tends to work into the late afternoon and can help with phones.
- ☆ Discussion on Budget. Finance Committee has approved a proposed budget. It was explained and discussed. There will be a deficit of $15,608 for the year of 2015—16. The main area of change is that the membership dues brought in are more realistic than they have been in the past. Motion to approve the budget as presented by Finance made by Art. Second by Rob. All in Favor. This will be presented to the congregation at the annual meeting.

Rabbi Tarfon and the Elders were once reclining in the upper story of Nithza's house, in Lod, when this question was posed to them: Which is greater, study or action? Rabbi Tarfon answered, saying: Action is greater. Rabbi Akiva answered, saying: Study is greater.

This is a great Talmudic debate. Our tradition teaches us that the study of the Torah is the most significant mitzvah because it leads to our engagement in other mitzvot (Talmud Shabbat 127a). Without understanding a commandment, we are less inclined to fulfill the commandment. And at the same time, an opposing rabbinic tradition teaches, "it is not the study that is essential, but rather the action" (Pirkei Avot, Ethics of our Fathers 1:17). In good Talmudic fashion, the rabbis pose a question, give more than one answer, and leave the rest to us. Perhaps this is because study and action are required in order to effect change and to make an impact.

I imagine that students in the religious school as well as parents enjoy having Sunday mornings to lounge around and spend time with family. Students can learn a lot during the eight months that they spend studying in a controlled, formal school environment. Time off from religious school is certainly not time off from learning. Over the summer break, students are expected to review Hebrew materials. Hebrew students took home summer work packets—a long 4 month break from practicing Hebrew could impact retention of reading fluency and vocabulary. Parents are encouraged to create meaningful and engaging learning opportunities through activities. Look for ideas that will allow your children to help others or to better their surroundings. Whether learning through acting or acting as a result of something you have learned, make moments special by incorporating these two elements.

Sinai Temple Youth Programming WHERE WE ARE AND WHERE WE PLAN TO GO

KIDdush Club has been a wonderful addition to the Sinai Temple calendar of events. Over the course of the year, we have had 5 AMAZING events. Our partnership with the Champaign-Urbana Jewish Federation has been beneficial, and we are looking forward to planning more events for the next year. Please help us by spreading the word to Jewish families with young children who may not be familiar with our programming. Our goals are to bring families with young children together and to celebrate our Jewish connection.

JEWniors—Throughout the next school year we will plan junior youth group events geared toward children in grades 3—7. If you are interested in helping to plan any of the activities, please contact Rabbi Jody (educator@sinaitemplecu.org). In addition to social programming, we will introduce a new Shabbat service intended for children in elementary and middle school. Please check your calendar and watch for email blasts. We can't wait to see this programming take off!

CUTY—Joe Winner did a great job working with temple members in 8th—12th grades. With an enthusiastic group of kids in this age range, CUTY will continue to grow. A goal for next year is to officially affiliate with NFTY (National Federation of Temple Youth). Among other things, this will allow our youth groupers to attend conferences and give us access to professionals who will help us re-form.

Around the Temple

We Welcome Mikhail Lyubansky, Elaine Shpungin, Aaron & Rachel to Sinai Temple

Mikhail Lyubansky, Elaine Shpungin and their children, Aaron, 12, and Rachel, 8, have lived in Champaign-Urbana for 10 years. They are originally from the former Soviet Union. Elaine was born in what is now Latvia and immigrated with her family to NYC when she was 8. Mikhail was born in what is now Ukraine and immigrated with his family to Skokie when he was 6. They met at graduate school (Michigan State) and have lived and worked in the midwest ever since (first Ohio and now Illinois).

Mikhail and Elaine both work at the University of Illinois in the Psychology Department. Mikhail teaches Psychology of Race and Ethnicity, and a graduate level course on Restorative Justice, among other courses. Elaine is the director of the Psychological Services Center on campus and also part of the Conflict Clinic, which offers consultations and Restorative Circles to schools, organizations, and local community. Both Elaine and Mikhail are passionate about practicing and teaching restorative approaches to conflict. You can read more in their blog: RestorativeRevolution.com.

The Lyubansky/Shpungins never practiced their Jewish faith, though Elaine's grandparents were quite religious. It wasn't until twelve-year-old Aaron became interested in his Jewish roots and asked to have a Bar-Mitzvah, that they found themselves joining the congregation. He is very curious about Jewish culture, history, and the middle east conflict.

They really enjoyed participating in Yom Kippur this year and learning the many ways it overlaps with the restorative practices approach they teach and follow. Taking responsibility for one's actions, expressing regret, making amends, and making a commitment to future actions more in line with one's values are all part of a restorative way of living. They enjoyed the contemplative time that this holiday brought with it because they were part of the congregation this year. Elaine wrote a (not very popular) blog post about it in October. Elaine also enjoyed the Jews in Film series for adults.

Both Mikhail and Elaine enjoy writing (blogging, non-fiction, and in Elaine's case, some short fiction and poetry). Mikhail likes to play basketball and run. Elaine practices yoga and goes hiking when she can get to it. Both kids love soccer and are on soccer teams. Rachel also draws and takes art classes. Aaron loves keeping up with current events, politics, and technology news. The family also bikes and camps together.

The Lyubansky/Shpungins are currently hosting a young woman from Brazil at their home for four months. After graduating with a nursing degree from a Brazilian University, she wanted to stay with an American family to improve her English and learn about U.S. culture. She joined them for Passover Seder and has enjoyed learning not only about the U.S. but also a little about Jewish culture and religion.

In late April, they adopted a shelter cat, Maggie, who is one and a half years old. Maggie has been cuddly, sweet, and patient with them, as she teaches them how to take care of their first pet.

Mazel Tov to Mindy Davids who just received an honorary doctorate for 25 years in Jewish education. She is the daughter of Aaron & Trudy Averbuch and grew up here.

Mazel Tov to Joyce Francisco and Tonya Bernstein on receiving the Rosenfield Volunteerism Award.

Mazel Tov to Don & Joyce Francisco and Pam Olson for the outstanding and wonderful presentation of the Holocaust Museum Project.

Mazel Tov to our High School graduates, including Carmen Gewirth, Simone Gewirth, and Irene Zharnitsky, who were members of our 2013-14 Confirmation class.

Mazel Tov to Randy Rosenbaum on receiving the UIUC College of Law's 2015 Alumni Loyalty award.

Mazel Tov to Jake Rosenbaum and the Jefferson Middle School Archery team for placing 4th in the U.S. National Archery Tournament.

WE LOVE OUR VOLUNTEERS

Where would we be without our volunteers? There are many people working behind the scenes contributing their time, energy and talents to the weekly tasks that keeps the Temple running smoothly. And we would like to give a BIG THANK YOU to everyone of you who volunteer for these essential tasks. We will be featuring different groups of volunteers each month in the bulletin.

After every oneg and dinner event there is a special group of people who take the soiled table linens home, wash them and bring them back to the Temple so they are ready for the next oneg and special event. Your Temple family thanks you: Reva & Bill Eggherman, Eleanor Finkin, Doreen Halberstam, Shirley & Richard Newman, Diane Ore and Inna Zharnitsky.

Thank You
