A Jew, a Catholic, three Protestants, and a Baha'i walk into a restaurant. It may sound like the beginning of a joke, but it's actually how I spend one Monday each month (I'm the Jew in the occasion, if you haven't figured that out). My lunchmates and I make up the executive council of the Interfaith Alliance of Champaign County, and we get together regularly to discuss ways that we can promote interfaith understanding within our community.

I was privileged to be able to help convene this group back in early 2014. Interfaith work was an important part of my rabbinate in my previous congregations in Seattle and Denver, and I sought to build on that work here. But there was no broad-based interfaith group then in existence here. The groups that were functioning here were either segregated according to religious denomination, or were geared toward the campus community. So, with the assistance of the wonderful transition committee that was helping to welcome me to Sinai Temple, we reached out to a number of religious institutions throughout C-U. About two dozen interested clergy and laypeople attended our first gathering, and from those humble beginnings, our group was born.

Early on, we engaged in some brainstorming, in an effort to determine those issues that we felt were most pressing, the ones that we thought we could help change for the better, if we approached them through the lens of faith. We turned our attentions to three topics: caring for the environment; hunger, homelessness, and poverty; and children and family issues. This latter topic we have since come to define as ensuring that every child has an equal opportunity to grow up in safety and dignity. So, we seek to focus upon addressing racial tensions and curbing the violence in our communities. Since we are a fairly young organization, we are still refining our action plans for exactly how we will confront some of these issues. But we have come to recognize that, in this case, the journey is almost as important as the destination. In our conversations about these issues, participants in the Alliance are learning things about one another. We are taking the opportunity to understand the passions and fears of individuals who cut across nearly every race, class, and faith represented in our county. By building relationships, we are building understanding.

A few months ago, as we formally organized the Alliance, I was selected to be the group's first chairperson. I am honored to serve in this capacity, and to bring a Jewish perspective to the table. We continue to reach out to encourage other faith communities to join our conversation; at the moment, in addition to me, we have representation from the Baha'i, Catholic, and Protestant communities who attend regularly.

Every faith tradition has some iteration of the "Golden Rule." In Judaism, it is articulated in the book of Leviticus as "Love your neighbor as yourself." If we all, regardless of the various religious and social labels we wear, would embrace one another as creatures of God, imbued with human dignity and worthy of love and respect, how much better could our world be?

Currently, the Interfaith Alliance of Champaign County meets on the final Wednesday of each month from 11:30 AM to 1 PM. We rotate our meeting location to gather at different faith organizations each month. Participants are encouraged to bring a bag lunch and join in the conversation and community building. If any of you are interested in being a part of our group, please contact me to be added to the mailing list so that you may learn about our upcoming meetings.

I firmly believe that the way to build a brighter future in which all people's voices are heard is to encourage interaction and education across the lines of faith, class, and race. I hope that you will join with me in these efforts.

I thought that March would be as good a time as any to talk about some of the things happening at Temple, as well as some of the great work happening behind the scenes.

Art Siegel recently presented to the board a list of building repairs/renovations that need to be considered over the next few years. Some of these items would fall into the category of “Sanctuary Renovation” and will be considered once a larger campaign is implemented. I would consider things like carpet replacement, electrical repairs and sound/video upgrades to be part of this category. There are items that are more foundational that include roof repairs and the replacement of 12 heat pumps. We have also looked at renovating the Cohen Garden to provide a nice outdoor place to hold events.

The board is also starting discussion about the Building Fund Obligation. While this fund has served our community well over the years, the contribution level has been relatively stable, while the costs of maintaining our building have increased. In fact, I’ve been told that it has been at the same level for the past 30 years. We are exploring the fairest way for all to contribute to the fund in order to be sure that we have sufficient funds to care for our building well into the future.

I also want to THANK all of the people who have either pledged additional money to the building fund or have given additional money toward their building fund obligation. This is a great start towards rebuilding the building fund!

So, what events are happening at Temple? Well, I am glad you asked...

... As I mentioned last month, Rabbi Alan has restarted the News and Nosh events. Additionally, Rabbi Alan has been leading a Talmud discussion on Sunday mornings. Also, Adult Education sessions meet on Sunday mornings to talk about a range of topics including Jewish food and conversations about death. Watch your weekly email blast for more information.

Our religious school has been hosting many of our students at several “lock-in events”. Rabbi Jody has organized several religious school services that are aimed at students for both Friday and Saturday services. Rabbi Jody has also implemented a new Next Dor service that provides a bridge between the Shabbat Rocks age group and the adult services.

Of course, I can’t forget to mention Purim. Happening towards the end of March, Rabbi Alan and his crew will explore the Purim story through the Star Wars characters. I have it on good authority that Purim basket volunteers are still needed for packing and delivery.

Lastly, I will mention that this is a busy time for the board as, among other things, we are preparing the budget for 2016-17 to be presented at the Annual Meeting on May 22. A nominating committee has been formed and is looking for input of possible board members and officers. If you are interested or have ideas, please contact a member of the nominating committee or myself.

I hope to see you at the many opportunities to gather together for worship, fellowship, and volunteering.

~Gary Bernstein~

Sinai Temple Board of Trustees Meeting: February 8, 2016

☆ Approval of minutes: Motion to approve Dec. 15 minutes by Art Siegel, 2nd by Rob Ore. All in Favor. Motion to approve January minutes, as corrected, by Art Siegel, 2nd by Jennie France. All in Favor.

☆ Board issues: Gary has appointed the 2016 Nominating Committee: Paul Weichsel (chair), three current board members Carmen Glezer, Julia Robinson, Amy Woolf and three congregants at-large Richard Cooke, Natalie Frankenberg, and Dan Kopolow. Motion to approve the nominating committee made and seconded. All in Favor. Matti Shalev has resigned from the Board due to time commitments. Gary has appointed Loren Israel to fill the remaining term. The board was asked to accept the nomination. All in Favor.

☆ Financial Reports: We have received

$291,000 in pledges with a value of $341,000.

☆ There was discussion about the building fund. Due to a request for additional donations and the fact that we have not spent money recently from the fund, we have received $74,000 in pledges this year. There was discussion that the current system of a $1500 obligation does not bring in enough money for repairs, it is more costly to younger members and that members who have paid their obligations continue to use our building. The Board will continue discussing options for the future and may place this on the agenda of the Annual Meeting to get congregational input.

☆ Religious School: Jody reported that two teens are going to a Song Leading Conference in Chicago March 11–13. The board agreed to pay for their registration. Jody also nominated Chico Gingold Wilson to receive a Birnbaum Scholarship; this is merit-based award for first-time campers for 2 weeks at Olin Sang Ruby. Motion to approve the recommendation from Finance. All in Favor.

☆ Building: The Holocaust Committee of the Champaign Urbana Jewish Federation has been storing their books at the Temple. The resources are available to the school districts, to teachers, to our own community and other members of the Jewish community. They have requested space which is display-based and have it more accessible to the community. Motion by Sanford to approve use of a vacant classroom subject to conditions. There would be no building–use fee. 2nd by Sena. All in Favor.

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL HIGHLIGHTS

I stopped wearing my Fitbit a couple of months ago (I plan to start wearing it again once the baby is born), but I know that if I tracked my steps on a Sunday morning, my results would be astounding. There is so much activity in the building on Sunday mornings—and it is amazing to see. Between chuggim (electives), core classes, Hand in Hand students, madrichim, teachers, Sinai Café, parent and community volunteers, Adult Hebrew and Adult Ed, the gift shop, lay leader meetings and more, nearly every room in the building is occupied and the energy level is high! If you haven't been to Sinai Temple lately on a Sunday morning, I encourage you to find a way to be involved or to come by for a cup of coffee and a bagel to check things out!

Hand in Hand—Morah Rebecca and her students are busy making Shabbat boxes. Each student/parent has designed candlestick holders, Kiddush cups, tzedakah boxes and challah covers. The students enjoy free play and exploration time in the room as well as weekly music classes and circle time.

Primary Grades—The mitzvah board in the PreK/K room is nearly filled up because these students come each week eager to share something that they have done to help a parent, to take care of their environment, to care for a pet, to help another child or to celebrate being Jewish. They are also busy learning about the holidays and the Hebrew letters.

In First Grade, the students are almost done learning the Alef-Bet. They are concentrating on decoding letters, writing letters and Alef-Bet Yoga. Morah Becky is going to help them make a movie of their yoga poses! They also had a pajama party to discuss morning and bedtime rituals!

Moreh Eric and his 2nd Graders are studying the Kotel, and have watched a live video stream of the Western Wall in Jerusalem, and are writing about how they observe the different Jewish holidays and about the Jewish calendar.

Intermediate/Hebrew High—In addition to their regular core curricula, these students have had many wonderful opportunities to explore different aspects of Judaism in short sessions called chuggim. Check out the 3-D Yads that some students made in a chug about yads and Torah reading. Also, we had a Sephardic Cooking class where we made borekas, compared Sephardic and Ashkenazic charoset and discussed the different Pesach observances of different Jews, and made Sephardic Purim treats called Ojos de Haman. Additionally, students could choose an elective on genealogy or social justice.

FLOWER FUND

The Sinai Temple has several obligated funds, meaning that the money donated to those funds are spent on those specific needs.

This month we would like to highlight the Alpiner Stern Flower Fund. This fund is used to supply weekly flowers for the Bima during services. After the weekend services, the flowers are taken to people in the hospital or home bound to provide a bright spot in their day. Joyce Eisenstein has been a longtime volunteer for this mitzvah. Thank you, Joyce!

When you are making a donation to the Temple, either for a yahrzeit or in honor of someone, the Alpiner Stern Flower Fund might be a fund you would like to consider!

FRIENDS OF SINAI TEMPLE RELIGIOUS SCHOOL

Friends of Sinai Temple Religious School was established to encourage an annual commitment to the religious education of our youth. Contributions are used exclusively to help defray the cost of operating the Religious School. The minimum contribution to the fund is $36. As in all funds, contributions may be made "in honor of," "in memory of," or to commemorate any occasion. All FRIENDS will be acknowledged in the Sinai Temple Bulletin.

To become a FRIEND, make your check payable to Sinai Temple FRIENDS, and mail to Natalie Frankenberg, 3705 Marjorie Lane, Champaign IL 61822, or to Sinai Temple.
